THAT WAS THAT 67ste jaargang nr. 7

Wedstrijdverslag VOC - CCG

Do we found a receipt for success and that" the most important thing, cricket is the ultimate of nerve, there are more sights in the sports then fast bowler in full flow, but spare a thoughts for batsman at the other end.

After 24 run in one over of David and 18 run of R. Brook , the game is drifting away from CCG, completely disarray, 3 catches has been drops. In this stage of match our moral was completely shattered and psychologically we were accepting defeat, they were not so good but we were so bad in every department of the game, fielding bowling and catching. It is universally truth "catches win the matches".

C.A. de Lange has exceptional spell in crunch time she had a pin point accuracy and every ball was deceptive for batsman, she has natural talent, she think and observed the move of batsman, which side of pitch he is strong and which side of he is week, that is rare breed of intelligence of any bowlers, I am sure she qualifies of this arts of bowling the way she explored herself was perfect. Every delivery she bowled was meaningful and attacking attitude.

Of course she is playing cricket regularly with Quick ladies team, her few deliveries were so delightful to watch, extraordinary yorkers and few leg break bowling were brilliant. I do not understand why captain changed her in crucial time, if she had completed her 7 over I am sure match have gone till 35 overs instead of 24 over, She has a great match temperament and compiling confidence to consistently attacking on wicket, her concentration was marvellous, if we have good fielding, I am sure she had a few more wicket. She is the women in the Match. No doubt they were most weakest side in the pool. They have won only one match.

Victor the great,

He played a longest inning in his life time along with Ware, he just play encore role, he make only the 5 golden loosing run, but his leg spin bowling was lethal, he got 2 wicket in 5 over highly successful bowler in this match.

Cricket knowledge,

We cold endlessly talk about cricket, still I am in illiterate in cricket sense. Cricket matches have certain moments, which captain could remove the course of the match, for examples spinners are crucial in sensitive time of the match, Sunday I noticed they were very week to facing spinners that is reason Victor the great, Chaudhry and C.A. de Lange could prolong the match or they could upset them.

Mike Barley,

The most successful captain in history of English cricket was Mike Barley, he was not good batsman, but he always thinking the profile of batsman's qualities and skills, mostly he concentrated batsman's skill and temperament, why he was psychologist later he became professor of that subjects also.

In "Ashes" against Australia, Australia have strong team at that moment but he always won the "Ashes" he watched the old matches and observed the weak point of Australian's batsman, that is why he did homework of their star batsman, he observed (perceive) the pitfall and memorised in his brain in present in brain's heard desk. Latly every team have two psychologist to giving them therapy how to handle the pressure in heat of the battle.

Ware de Vroe,

It has been long time he accomplished the half Century with torture himself, amazingly he fought and keep fighting with his immortal willpower, he want to get out but cricket do not allow him to escapes in this context. He had a cracking and delightful few boundaries and painful singles and twos, That why we gave him King Richard the lion heart, we all are thankful to him that he is a great captain.

There is no important to mention except frustration to loosing the match. Cool and cool beer and gorgeous tarries. That is all gentleman.
